— to SOW NOW!

IN this special circular No. 18 we wish to call your attention to a few very seasonable Flower Seed items. No time should be lost in sowing to follow those mum beds. Remember that all these crops can be started in pots or open beds, saving a month or six weeks of valuable greenhouse space. A number of items will be found for later sowing in the north, but which are of immediate interest to OUR SOUTHERN FRIENDS.

Our supplies in all lines are fresh and complete, except aster seed that will be ready in about two weeks. Prompt and efficient service with "All the Best and Nothing Else" in our line—that's our business. May we be of service to you?

BALL WINTER PEAS

If sown at once, in pots, nice plants will be ready November 1 to follow those early mum beds, and for the beds that will be cleared Thanksgiving a sowing should be made October 15. This start in pots will save a month or more. Take advantage of it by ordering today. Early peas are one of our leading specialties, and through careful trials we know the following list includes "All the Best." The varieties we find the best are starred (*).

LATE, OR SUMMER PEAS

Planted about 12 inches apart with Early Peas after Mums, this late-flowering type will not grow up or crowd the Earlies until they have exhausted themselves; after which their strong growth crowds out the Earlies and they flower freely well through June. South of the Ohio River this late type can be sown in the open, and unless the winter is too severe or changeable they easily winter over with some protection. The varieties marked * are the choicest cut flower colors.

Double STOCKS

OUR American-grown strains will make a dependable average of 65% to 75% doubles, are absolutely true to type and of suitable varieties for American Cut Flower demands. From trials conducted at Wisley, England, by the Royal Horticultural Society, these American strains received five awards of merit, and from our own trials of all available foreign strains we are certain of the merit of our American stocks. We issue a circular that goes into considerable details of our method of growing this crop. Shall we enclose a copy? For those not familiar with them, we have starred (*) the very choicest standard varieties. New crop of seed ready for immediate shipment.

- BLOOD RED. LAVENDER.
- CANARY YELLOW. PURPLE.
- CARMINE PINK. WHITE.
- DEEP ROSE. TEN WEEKS MIXED. All colors.

12,000 square feet of stocks grown on single stem or close planting method at Ball Gardens, West Chicago, Ill. The seed was sown February 1 in flats, transplanted March 10 in rows across the beds, 7 inches between the rows and 3 inches in the row. The photo was taken June 2. A few of the earliest were cut out for Mothers' day. With a slightly higher temperature, more would have been ready for this occasion. The soil used was fresh for a crop of peas that preceded the stocks. Old soil tends to produce the black stem rot this plant is subject to. One set of wire and string supports was used, but with a heavy growth this is not always enough.

For long stems and branching habit this is a fine group and includes some of our choicest kinds.

PETUNIAS

THE fancy double strains of petunias should be sown early in the winter and to produce fine specimens of the giant single kind, most growers sow early in December. GIANT DOUBLE FRINGED. We offer the finest strain of this that can be had. It will average about 25% very choice doubles and about 15% more that will be fairly good. This stock produces little seed and must be hand-pollinated. For these reasons it is costly. The choicest plants, when in flower, should be selected for propagating by cuttings. Fine stocks are worked up in this way. The weakest seedlings are most inclined to come double.
